Hello Marilyn,

Let me start by introducing myself as Connie, the person on the radio show the other night that called in.

I was impressed with your description of Lee and will say that as you were talking of ways to describe him I was conjuring words to say at the same time. He is a complex, intelligent beyond belief on International issues... , nice guy, funny in a snorty sort of way.. fast with a comeback on about everything .. that leads you to the words you said.. 'he makes me laugh'... as he has a quick wit with words and descriptions that are not funny but very funny for some dark reason. Like ' they decided to die'...

well, I would like to talk with you.... to see if this person I am talking to and the man you know are one in the same. I really have no doubt... but I do think we would pass on the same info and are talking to the same man.

I know you are busy and have a life... lol... so whenever its good for you.. lets talk !~

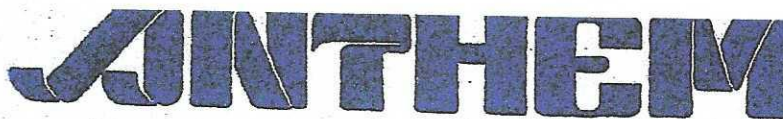

Have a grand week end !

Connie Disney

So the email address is tuscansun@comcast.com and is not listed under "Connie." Since I don't think I have heard you use the words "they decided to die..." I have no idea if she's talking with you or with someone else who says he's Lee Wanta. If you want me to provide Connie with information about Michael Cottrell et al, send me what you want me to provide and I will do so. I have no intention of talking about CMKX or to a CMKX group.

Also, all of my AmeriRail files are enclosed on a disc. When I get time, I will continue to edit and copy other files from three hard drives. There are, I'm sure, repetitious files. No way to avoid it - they were saved on D (which used to be C, the drive that was hacked in Dec 2009 after I did the hsr interview with Chuck Wilder and Heneghan wrote about the hsr article). At that time, the computer was acting crazy so I copied all the files I could to the H drive (external) before C crashed (and later became D). Each of the drives has individual files that don't appear on the other two. So, when copying, a lot of decisions have to be made about which file with the same name but a different save date should be copied. It takes time and even then I'm sure I'm saving duplicates and possibly deleting some non-duplicates. I'm saving everything as of 2/1/11 on an 8 GB flash drive so it will, at some point in the future, all be on one instrument I can send you - probably by 2016.

I hope you enjoyed your four-day weekend. Kay said you didn't call because you thought she was there (?) and wanted all of us to enjoy the time together with no interruptions from you.

Hello, Lee.

Enclosed are two discs containing the two-hour radio show minus commercials. On the first hour (#1), I recorded two different segments. Track 2 is the beginning of the show. I heard from Kay that you had a chance to listen... I'm so glad I sent him a series of questions about you designed around the material I planned to cover. His style left a lot to be desired - I'm sure mine did, too. Clay talks so loud, I had to hold the telephone away from my ear and there were a lot of technical errors. Not complaints, just facts. You'll notice that some words are cut in half in Liberty Broadcasting's cached recording (no recording problems at my end, but there are with Liberty Broadcasting's taped file), and sentences, too, sometimes. It didn't air that way (according to C.J.). It must have happened when they edited the tapes for their library. Re the interview, it's obvious I don't know anything about the Global Fund nor CMKX (and have no desire to learn), but everyone seems to assume your funds are tied up as part of a giant trust in the sky, no matter how many times I say they aren't... and say it pretty clearly from my perspective. Connie's question about the Chinese was so vague, I had a hard time trying to figure out what she was talking about. The interesting thing about her: She called right after Clay had asked me to describe you as a person. I said some remarkably kind things about you to which Connie responded. The following emails will tell you about that:

Marilyn,

My name is Tony, and I am one of the many CMKX shareholders who listened to the interview on Clay's show. It was a riveting 2 hours. Thanks.

Although you made it clear that Mr. Wanta's funds have nothing to do with CMKX, your knowledge of Mr. Cottrell & Mr. Bonney, and their involvement with Mr. Hodges and the CMKX lawsuit, is information that shareholders have been trying to understand for more than a year now.

The caller named 'wyatt' is one of the lead plaintiffs in the lawsuit. If past history is any indication, his story about the World Court was probably more hearsay fed to him by Mr. Hodges, which is why he immediately backed down when you said you had a document showing the opposite decision.

Many shareholders were listening in a PalTalk.com chat room, which was moderated by the caller named 'Connie', who discussed Mr. Wanta with you.

If there is any way you can share more of your knowledge about the Cottrell side of the story, I'm sure Connie would love to have you speak as a guest in the room, or maybe make arrangements to speak with her directly. Please let me know if that would be possible.

Thanks again for a great show and amazing insights on Mr. Wanta.

Sincerely,
Tony Bo.
