The Pentagon appointed a senior general to oversee military relief operations in hurricane-ravaged Puerto Rico, even as President Donald Trump's administration faced calls from lawmakers for a far more robust response to the disaster.

The U.S. territory of 3.4 million people is reeling from Hurricane Maria, which struck on Sept. 20 as the most powerful storm to hit the island in nearly 90 years, causing widespread flooding, completely cutting power and heavily damaging homes, roads and other infrastructure.

The storm claimed more than 30 lives across the Caribbean, including at least 16 in Puerto Rico. Governor Ricardo Rossello has called the scope of the island's devastation unprecedented.

The U.S. military, which has poured some 4,400 troops into the relief effort, including the Puerto Rico National Guard, named Lieutenant General Jeffrey Buchanan to oversee its response on the island.

Buchanan, Army chief for the military's U.S. Northern Command, was expected to arrive in Puerto Rico later on Thursday. He will be the Pentagon's main liaison with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the U.S. government's lead agency on the island, and focus on aid distribution, the Pentagon said in a statement.

FEMA has placed the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in charge of rebuilding the island's crippled power grid

U.S. Senator Marco Rubio of Florida, like Trump a Republican, had earlier called for appointment of a single authority to oversee all hurricane relief efforts, and said the Defense Department should mostly be in charge.

"I'm arguing that at least when it comes to logistics the federal government is going to have to lead, and they're going to have to put someone there with the authority to make these decisions and execute on them fairly quickly," Rubio told CNN.

Democratic U.S. Senator Richard Blumenthal of Connecticut said the crisis was shifting from a natural disaster to a man-made one, adding that the government's response had been "shamefully slow and undersized and should be vastly upgraded and increased."

Speaking on the Senate floor, he called for as many as 50,000 troops "not to occupy the island, not to enforce martial law" but to coordinate logistics and the delivery of aid and basic necessities.

Even as FEMA and the U.S. military have stepped up relief efforts, many residents in Puerto Rico have been frustrated over the prolonged lack of electricity, drinking water and other essentials.

Radamez Montañez, a building administrator from the municipality of Carolina, east of capital city San Juan, said he had been without water and electricity at home since Hurricane Irma grazed the island two weeks before Maria. "It's chaos, total chaos," he said.

Defending the relief effort, White House spokeswoman Sarah Sanders said 10,000 federal relief workers had arrived in Puerto Rico, including troops, and that 44 of the island's 69 hospitals were now fully operational.

"The full weight of the United States government is engaged to ensure that food, water, healthcare and other life-saving resources are making it to the people in need," Sanders told reporters.

SHIPPING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The Trump administration earlier lifted restrictions known as the Jones Act for 10 days on foreign shipping from the U.S. mainland to Puerto Rico. While that measure might help speed cargo shipments, Puerto Rico is struggling to move supplies around the island once they arrive.

The U.S. government has temporarily lifted the Jones Act following violent storms in the past, including Irma, which pummeled Florida earlier this month, and Hurricane Harvey, which thrashed Texas in late August. Critics had charged the government was slow to do this for Puerto Rico.

Overall, the island is likely to need far more than $30 billion in long-term aid from the U.S. government for disaster relief and rebuilding efforts following Maria, a senior Republican congressional aide said on Thursday.

The aide, who asked not to be identified, said that while Congress has quickly fulfilled the administration's requests for disaster assistance, there are concerns that government agencies have been sluggish and that bureaucratic red tape may have slowed the work of the Defense Department and other offices.

The immediate relief effort was still badly hampered by the hit to infrastructure.

Clearing cargo deliveries at the San Juan port remained slow, and several newly arrived tankers were waiting for a chance to unload their fuel, according to Thomson Reuters shipping data.

"Really our biggest challenge has been the logistical assets to try to get some of the food and some of the water to different areas of Puerto Rico," Governor Rossello told MSNBC on Thursday. He has staunchly defended the Trump administration for its relief response.

Brock Long, the FEMA administrator, told CNN he was dissatisfied with the federal response to Maria, saying relief operations had been hindered by damage to the island's air traffic control system, airports and seaports.

The military has delivered fuel to nine hospitals and helped establish more than 100 distribution centers for food and water on the island, the Pentagon said on Thursday.

It was also shipping such equipment as a large generator to power a radar center for air traffic control in San Juan and other airports, and a barge with 100 supply trucks carrying diesel and gasoline.

RE: High Speed Rail, Ambassador Leo Wanta

Dear President Trump:

Please be advised that I, Jan M. Heger Esq., am former Counsel to Ambassador Lee Wanta for many years and am now retired. I have never in the history of practicing law for over 40 years met an individual who I admire, respect and trust more than Ambassador Wanta, who an officer of the United States as was appointed by President Reagan. He has honorably served the United States of America during our time of need and in my opinion should receive the Medal of Honor for his service during the cold war. Instead he has been abused by the legal system and/or the Deep State for doing his best and succeeded admirably to protect and defend the United States of America during the cold war, a specific secret task and treaty awarded to him by President Reagan in order to destabilize the Soviet Union. As you may be aware he has written a book which provides much of the proof and information you may need.

Trillions of US Dollars were made during this operation which were to be returned to the US to pay off the debts of United States less a percentage of earnings that were agreed to be paid to him personally. Instead he was unlawfully incarcerated and prosecuted here in the United States for crimes he never committed ie Tax Evasion by the State of Wisconsin most likely caused by the so called Deep State. I personally was in possession of two copies of cancelled checks made payable to the State of Wisconsin noting the payment of taxes which were cashed by the State of Wisconsin. As such, it was absolutely impossible for that tax crime to have been committed or to have occurred.

High Speed Rail

I believe you have heard of Heger Realty or JW Heger Company one of the largest Industrial Real Estate Companies in Southern California solely owned and operated by my father Jack W. Heger, now deceased. He was the President of the US Industrial Real Estate Association for many years and his clients included Southern Pacific Railroad and many Fortune 500 Companies. The high speed rail Ambassador Wanta is proposing would be a tremendous infrastructure project for the United States and would necessarily employ many US citizens. It is about time that this country have what other countries have ie a High Speed Rail. I cannot recommend more highly Ambassador Lee Wanta who is willing, once again, to serve the United States and to use his own hard earned funds in the process. Should you need further information, please do not hesitate contacting me at 949-295-2444 or by email at Hegerlaw@outlook.com. Thank you for your kind attention to this matter.

Respectfully yours,

Jan M. Heger Esq.
Former Officer of JW Heger Co, Industrial/Commercial Real Estate Brokers
Retired Lawyer and former US Army Officer, Headquarters Saigon, Vietnam

LV

Ambassador Lee Wanta. Lee was mandated by President Reagan under the Totten Doctrine [92 U.S. 105, 107 (1875), National Security Decision - Directive Number 166, dated March 27, 1985, inter alia] as a secret agent to be in charge of this effort. In this process Lee Wanta did amass trillions of dollars that were designated to go back to the American people by President Reagan. In his effort to carry out his mandate, Lee Wanta was imprisoned and the monetary funds that were his to distribute as planned were stolen or converted illegally by an organization known as the Federal Reserve System and used by them to this day.

Later in 2006 a US District Court Judge mandated and ordered that these converted funds be returned back to Lee with interest accruals. It's hard to understand why, after eight years since this order was given by a US Judge, that these funds are still retained. When Lee Wanta receives his funds back it will be in the amount of 32.8 trillion dollars. He promised under an oath to President Reagan that after he pays his repatriation taxes on this money he earned as director general in his Austrian based company, Lee has pledged to eliminate overnight our national debt (approximately 18 trillion), and our 1.8 trillion International trade deficit at once. He also will pay certain sovereign nations what they were promised in the Reagan-Mitterand protocols. This includes the French, Chinese, English and Russian Governments, where billions were promised. With the remaining funds left over he plans to develop and create a high speed rail system for our country and develop new innovative businesses that could employ over 2 million people in the USA alone.

Washington, D.C. 20008

By Sarah McClendon

Washington, D.C. — Leo Wanta, whose purchase of huge sums in Russian rubles is credited with bringing down the Soviet Union in the Cold War, will be put through a third party lunacy test in Madison, Wisconsin circuit court on Tuesday. He has successfully been declared of sound mind in two previous lunacy tests under the Wisconsin state attorney general's office. His own attorney, James Shellow of Madison, Wis., is instituting this test. Shellow says that under the rules for attorneys in Wisconsin he has to notify the court that he thinks the lunacy test should be given. Shellow admits to being a former attorney for a deceased Mafia chief in Wisconsin named Belistiari. Shellow thinks Wanta will be declared sane in the upcoming hearing on Tuesday, but Shellow claims to know nothing as to how Wisconsin was able to extradite Wanta in chains and shackles from Switzerland, where he was doing business with Swiss banks after having given up his citizenship in Wisconsin. Wanta claims that he had just been made ambassador to Switzerland and Canada when Wisconsin state officials seized him bodily in Switzerland. Wanta claims that they took his briefcase from him at that time which contained billions in Treasury bills and Promise software technical equipment which the U.S. was using to get inside information about foreign treasuries.

Although the briefcase was taken by Wisconsin authorities in 1993, it has never been returned to Wanta nor has he any knowledge of what happened to its contents.

The charge is that he owed Wisconsin originally approximately $14,000. He claims to have paid back that amount in 1992. The state attorney general's office seized his house worth $120,000 and sold it for $60,000, but there is no record of this in the Department of Revenue in Wisconsin nor is there any trace of the proceeds from the sale.

Wanta was buying rubles from Russia at the request of the President, Ronald Reagan. Wanta had worked at the White House, the National Security Council, the Central Intelligence Agency and six other government agencies during his career.

He and President George Bush set up the Amcritrust account in the Credite Suisse bank for the U.S. government to use in case it needed to counter terrorists from overseas, according to Pat Cameron, Los Angeles attorney for Wanta. Wanta says that when former president George Bush sought to withdraw funds from the $210 billion on deposit that Wanta, a co-signer of the account, refused to give his signature for the withdrawal because the funds, he said, belonged to the U.S. government, not to an individual.

We are doing it. Just because a few idiots do not have any understanding of what it takes to mobilize and execute an effort of this magnitude does not mean it isn't proceeding at a good rate given the lack of basically everything. Piers are blown out so ship's can't dock. Cranes on the remaining dockable spaces are destroyed, meaning unloading the ships is very time consuming. Even when unloaded, the materials need to be distributed across the island and require hand carrying for much of the task. The list goes on and on, including lack of communications, power, potable water, running water for sanitation and much more.
Do try to keep up.

a fool of yourself. The military has been providing supplies and support since day 2. The US has sent supplies but they are sitting on the docks or airports because the PR gov can not get them delivered. The territory was in deep doo-doo before two storms hit - huge bankruptcy, power grid falling apart, poor infrastructure - and now it is unmanageable. Notice that this article says the US military has taken over. The US military did not have to take over when the devastation hit in Texas and FL because the local gov were able to organize, lead, and coordinate. That is the difference between a successful gov and a failing gov like PR. btw, they are not a state and have chosen several times to remain a territory but now it is the fault of the US that they are suffering. You live on a freakin island and you are surprised by storms?

Where are charities to help, as they have been so active under Obama? Well, it seems they won't help now as Liberals are eager to bash Trump admin and cry there is not much money poured into socialist ruled PR. BTW, they actually are NOT an American state, just a territory, and in 2016 were favoring "shoe in" by huge margins, ruled by Democrat local mafia.

WHAT "CIRCUMSTANCES"? The fact America has an ignorant buffoon of a president - quite a circumstance for sure!

I'm no fan of Trump or FEMA but the criticism they are getting is ridiculous. FEMA is unloading and delivering container after container of supplies but all you see on the news is a drama queen pointing at a bunch of containers filled with who know what if anything demanding that "somebody" do "something."

And as you see on the CNN reporting - that it is going absolutely NO WHERE as the advance troops to clear the roads and get to remote areas doesn't exist. Maybe all the supplies can just sit on the docks and ROT!

Blumenthal is a blooming idiot. There are 4400 troops + FEMA + others + sending the Corp of Engineers. He wants 50,000 troops - 1 troop for every 60 Puerto Ricans.

He targets all the aid workers and troops have to be supplied and supported too. 50,000 the troops would be stepping all over each other on an island that size. The Corp of Engineers will put things to right fast enough - miracle workers.

 Lee → Whatknow · 3 minutes ago

Yeah, maybe Blumenthal should volunteer to make up for his lies about Vietnam! He is a prime example of Stolen Valor.

 Gweduc → Whatknow · 3 hours ago

Did you see the MESS on that island - you don't calculate a RELIEF EFFORT based on the population. You base it on NEED!

If there was only one person living on island would you just send 1 soldier to help clean up 3,492 square miles?

Off topic but all the Bears and all the Packers stood. See what happens this weekend.

Someone must have told them how counterproductive that kneeling was. Perhaps, it was the boxing of the fans in attendance, last night. Those there said it was long and loud, which they did not show on TV, last night after the game.

yes, bob, they stood but only a few put their hands over (or near) their hearts. They told us they were unified by linking arms but did not tell us what they were unified about? Where they unified in the belief that players could/should kneel? Were they unified against Trump (this is what others had said during last week's unifying actions)? Were they unified as a team - that is what coaches were demanding last week - even tried to tell a vet that he should support the TEAM over his country or his God. What were they unified about??

And NONE of the cheese heads failed to show up - even though they said they would 'boycott en masse' - poof goes another right wing lunatic boycott!

Well, obviously the point got across to the players because they all stood. Didn't think of that, did you smart guy?

Democrats voters' base.
They have "free lunch" mentality and were filing for bankruptcy, if you can recall, as they can't manage Gov. funds properly.

I haven't researched it, but it seems like they want all of the benefits of statehood ... without the balanced budget mandate.

For the most part they are self sufficient and productive people but with 3 million people to choose from you can always find some whiny loser to make good video.
