Court Adjudicated Official Federal Whistleblower FIRED for Reporting On-Going Treason of Briberies and Cover Up Conspiracies 'Giving Aid and Comfort' to Illegal Muslims—Rewarding Numerous Felonies

TREASON

Disloyalty to one's nation; a person who reneges on an oath of loyalty or a pledge of allegiance, is considered to be a traitor.

Article Three of the United States Constitution defines treason as levying war against the United States or giving aid and comfort to its enemies.

Extensive TREASON in the United States is not a contained domestic issue, but has a far reaching, worldwide detrimental impact.

We here in America have a moral responsibility to the rest of the world when our actions have negative repercussions on their daily lives. Lieve Pellens, spokeswoman for the Belgian federal prosecutor, says that 80% to 90% of those arrested since 2003 on terrorism charges are Moroccan. Says a French investigator: "The days of not worrying about Morocco are over." Time Magazine Mar. 21, 2005

EXCEPT here in the U.S. where Bush and Congress reward illegal MOROCCANS felonies with green cards and our highest privilege of United States citizenship -- affording opportunities for a federal job with access to classified information.

Map of Islamic Terrorist Network in America

DURING THE PAST 25+ YEARS

IN THE ORLANDO CENTRAL FLORIDA AREA A GREAT PERCENT OF MOROCCANS WHO ENTER THE UNITED STATES ON VISAS TO WORK AT DISNEYWORLD'S EPCOT MOROCCAN PAVILION ENGAGE IN FELONY FRAUD SHAM MARRIAGES

FELONY PERJURY

FELONY FRAUD DOCUMENTS.

AND FELONY BRIBERY!!!

THESE NUMEROUS FELONIES ARE REWARDED WITH

GREEN CARDS AND OUR HIGHEST PRIVILEGE OF

UNITED STATES CITIZENSHIP

WITH EASIER TRAVEL ON UNITED SGTAES PASSPORTS, VOTING PRIVILEGES, THE ABILITY TO HOLD PUBLIC OFFICE AND THE OPPORTUNITY FOR A FEDERAL EMPLOYEE POSITION WITH ACCESS TO CLASSIFIED INFORMATION;

These are Felony Violations of Title 18 of the United States Code

The Morocco File

"FBI Directors Louis Freeh and Robert Mueller" notified 24 Feb 2000 transmittal letter and list of over 200 fraud cases sent to FBI Director Freeh and note the quantity of Moroccans [subsequently sent to Bush, Ashcroft, Mueller, Ridge, Fine, Kaplan, Congress, including the House Judiciary Committee and both the Senate and House Select Committees on Intelligence]

Partial List of Moroccans Involved in

Terrorist-Related Activities

- Moroccans arrested in Fallujah, Iraq fighting U.S. forces
- About 600 Moroccans are known to have trained in Afghanistan camps sponsored by Osama bin Laden;
- Morocco warned Spain it lost track of 400 Moroccan Islamist militants who trained in Al Qaeda camps in Afghanistan, Bosnia or Chechnya;
- Five Moroccans were arrested in Italy in 2003 in possession of explosives and maps;
- Nine Moroccans were arrested in 2002 with cyanide and maps for the tunnels beneath the American embassy in Rome;
- At least 17 Moroccans are held at Guantanamo, Camp X-Ray;
- Moroccans were aiding Saudis who planned to blow up NATO warships in the Straits of Gibraltar;
- Moroccans in the U. S. were required by the U. S. government in 2002, to comply with the mandatory registration program;
- Moroccan Amer el (Al) Azizi aka Othman Andalusi. fugitive suspect in Madrid bombings and U.S. officials also said Azizi may have met with 9/11 alleged hijacker Mohamed Atta and coordinator Ramzi Binalshibh; alleged 20th hijacker Zacharias Moussaoui had Azizi's Number;
- Moroccan Mohammed al-Fazazi, imam, arrested for Casablanca bombings; associated with 9/11 Mohamed Atta;
- Moroccan Youssef Karroum was associated with Algerian Ahmed Ressam who was planning to blow up LAX;
- Zacharias Moussaoui is a French Moroccan; arrested, suspected 9/11 conspiracy

- Moroccan Mounir al-Motassadek linked to the 9/11 attack;
- Moroccan Abdelghani Mzoudi, believed recruited 9/11 terrorist d to U.N. Al Qaeda list;
- Moroccan Abdallah Tabarak, Osama bin Laden's bodyguard found in possession of Osama's satellite cell phone;
- Moroccan Karim Koubriti, arrested on terrorism conspiracy;
- Moroccan Ahmed Hannan, arrested on terrorism conspiracy;
- Moroccan Mohamed Rafik, arrested in connection with the Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Muhammed Daki, accused of sending funds/recruiting militants to Iraq for suicide attacks or as fighters against US-led forces in the country;
- Dutch-Moroccan Mohammed Bouyeri, arrested for murder of Netherlands film director van Gogh;
- Moroccan Jamal Ben Miloud Amar Ajouaou, arrested as terror suspect;
- Moroccan Adil Adil al-Sharqawi (Charkaoui), arrested as a member of the Moroccan Islamic Combatant Group;
- Moroccan Majid Bakkali, arrested as suspect in terrorist cell;
- Moroccan Abdelkader Farhaoui, arrested as suspect in terrorist cell;
- Moroccan Mohamed Douha, arrested as suspect in terrorist cell;
- Moroccan Hassan El Haski, arrested for Madrid train bombings;
- Moroccan Moustafa Chaouki, died in failed suspected terrorist bombing;
- Moroccan Samir Ben Abdellah, former imam, suspected of terrorist ties
- Moroccan Rachid Oulad Akcha, suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Jamal Zougam, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Abdul Aziz Bin Yaeesh, suspected of terrorist activities;

- Moroccan Abdallah Mourib, arrested as a member of the Moroccan Islamic Combatant Group;
- Moroccan Ali Fahimi, arrested as a member of the Moroccan Islamic Combatant Group;
- Moroccan Brahim Atia El Hammouchi, arrested as a member of the Moroccan Islamic Combatant Group;
- Moroccan Abdeladim Akoudad aka 'Nadufel', arrested as member in several extremist groups and for Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Samir Azzouz aka 'Yassiné, accused of plotting to blow up Dutch landmarks;
- Moroccan Salaheddin Benyaich aka Abu Mughen, arrested for Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Abdelaziz Benyaich, now jailed in Spain for his role in the Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Mohamed Ouzar, member of Al Qaeda;
- Moroccan Mohamed Mazouz, member of Al Qaeda;
- Moroccan Radouane Chekkouri, member of Al Qaeda;
- Moroccan Brahim Benchakroun, member of Al Qaeda;
- Moroccan Mohammed Chaoui, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Mohammed Bekkali, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Khalid Zeimi Pardo, arrested as member of terrorist cell:
- Moroccan Mohamed el Ouazzani, arrested as member of terrorist cell;
- Moroccan Abdelatif Mourafik, arrested for Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Mustafa Maymouni, arrested for Casablanca bombings;

- Moroccan Driss Chebli, arrested for Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Mohammed al-Guerbouzi aka Abou Aissa, suspect in Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Faisal Allouch, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Abdelatif Mourafik, arrested for Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Hassan Dabou is an Al Qaeda activist;
- Moroccan Djamel Ajouaou, aiding Al Qaeda;
- Moroccan Houssaine Kherchtou, an Osama bin Laden pilot;
- Moroccan Ahmed Shah Masood;
- Moroccan Moustapha Baouchi, arrested for Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Driss Elatellah, arrested for terrorism conspiracy in Belgium;
- Moroccan Yousef El Moumem, arrested for terrorism conspiracy in Belgium;
- Moroccan Tarik Karim; arrested for terrorism conspiracy in Belgium
- Moroccan Brahim Mousatten, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Mohamed Mousatten, suspected to be Abu Dujanah, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Youssef Belhadj, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Rachid Bendouda aka Fat Rachid, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Abdennabi Kounjaa, alias "Abdala", arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Mohammed Oulad Akcha, suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Otman el Gnaout, arrested as suspect in terrorist organization;

- Moroccan Fouad El Morabit Anghar, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Said Berraj, suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Jamal Ahmidan, aka El Chino, suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Abdelkrim Mejjati, convicted Casablanca bombings and wanted by the FBI;
- Moroccan Nouredine Nfia aka Abu Mouad, arrested, suspect leader of Moroccan Islamic Combatant Group, admitted to combat training in Afghanistan;
- Moroccan Brahim Moussatten, arrested for collaborating with terrorist group;
- Moroccan Mohamed Moussatten, arrestd for collaborating with terrorist group;
- Moroccan Rachid Bendouda aka Rachid el Gordo, arrested for collaboration with a terrorist organization;
- Moroccan Rachid Mohammed Kaddour, arrested for collaboration with a terrorist organization;
- Moroccan Abdenabi Kounjaa, suspect in masterminding Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Hicham Temsamani Jad, arrested as suspect in Casablanca bombings;
- Moroccan Mustafa Zanibar, arrested as member in terrorist organization;
- Moroccan Norodine Enfia is a suspected terrorist;
- Moroccan Mohamed Chedadi, arrested in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Said Chedadi, arrested as alleged al-Qaeda operative;
- Moroccan Karim El Mejjati, suspected terrorist wanted by FBI;
- Moroccan Farid Hilali, arrested suspect linked to 9/11 and Madrid bombings, Hilali was identified by a Spanish judge last year as a co-conspirator in the attacks on America;

- Moroccan Redouane Ben Fraima, detained for alleged terrorist charges;
- Moroccan Housni Jamal, suspected of recruiting militants to fight in Iraq;
- Moroccan Hicham Ahmidam, suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Rafa Zouhier, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Hamid Ahmidam, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Abdelilah El Faoual El Akil, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Rachid Adli, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Saed El Harrak, arrested as suspect in Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Mohamed Afalah, international arrest warrant;
- Moroccan Abdelmajid boucher, international arrest warrant;
- Moroccan Mohamed Belhadj, international arrest warrant;
- Moroccan Said Al-Maghrebi, arrested for recruiting fighters against U.S. in Iraq;
- Moroccan Jaouad el Bouzrouti, arrested for Madrid bombings;
- Moroccan Noureddine Drissi, arrested in Italy planning terrorist attacks;
- Moroccan Mustapha Maimouni, arrested for Casablanca bombings;

Morocco: The New Face Of Terror?

by James Graff - Time Magazine, Mar. 21, 2005 - Madrid

...Of the 22 people still being held in jail, 15 are Moroccans. In recent years, the intense police scrutiny paid to other Arab populations in Europe, as well as the flow of drugs through Morocco, has led terrorist organizers to step up their recruitment of Moroccans, long viewed as minor players in the global jihad. A member of Hofstad, an extremist group composed largely of young ethnic Moroccans, is accused of the November murder of Dutch filmmaker Theo van Gogh. A total of 13 of the terrorist-group members have been arrested by Dutch police so far. Similar sweeps have led to arrests in France and Belgium, where at least a dozen members of a suspected Moroccan terrorist cell have been jailed over the past year. Lieve Pellens, spokeswoman for the Belgian federal prosecutor, says that 80% to 90% of those arrested since 2003 on terrorism charges are Moroccan. Says a French investigator: "The days of not worrying about Morocco are over."

Counterterrorism officials say they are increasingly concerned about the influence of the loosely organized Moroccan Islamic Combatant Group, a fraternity of extremists rooted in Morocco with ties to both al-Qaeda and many suspected terrorists in Europe, including the Madrid bombers. But authorities don't know the full scope of the threat, in part because Moroccan radicals are adept at hiding in plain sight. According to a French antiterrorism investigator, cell members in Europe have successfully exploited the reputation of Moroccans as hardworking and willing to assimilate. "They work hard at day jobs and family lives that provide total cover for clandestine activity," says the investigator... Full Story

Odyssey of an Al Qaeda Operative Moroccan's Trail of Terror Illustrates Ongoing Ability to Organize Attacks

by Craig Whitlock - Washington Post Foreign Service Monday, May 2, 2005

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia -- In the post-Sept. 11 world, Karim Mejjati was the perfect undercover al Qaeda operative. The former medical student from Morocco could speak several languages, had many passports and excelled at building bombs. He was also good at avoiding attention as he crisscrossed four continents to organize a wave of catastrophic attacks.

On May 12, 2003, an al Qaeda network that investigators say was put together by Mejjati in Saudi Arabia blew up three residential compounds for foreign workers in Riyadh, leaving 23 dead. Less than a week later, about 3,000 miles away, suicide bombers trained by Mejjati carried out the deadliest terrorist attacks in Moroccan history, killing 45 people in Casablanca.

For the next two years, authorities in the Middle East, North Africa, Europe and North America pressed a secret but intensive global manhunt for the French-schooled suspect, fearing that he had set up other al Qaeda sleeper cells that had yet to be activated. Saudi Arabia put him near the top of its list of most wanted terrorism suspects. In Morocco, he was sentenced in absentia to 20 years for the Casablanca bombings. The FBI named him in a global anti-terrorism alert, warning that he was suspected of planning attacks in the United States. Full Story

Morocco's dilemma: democracy or terror?

The kingdom's autocratic political system may be driving more young Moroccans into Jihad

by Ali Amar - Metrovox.co.uk Thursday, March 14, 2005

When suicide bombers shattered the calm of the Casablanca night on 16 May 2003, they did more than take 45 lives; they endangered Morocco's future as a democracy. Morocco had long been considered a haven of tolerance and peace. Any troubles were attributed to foreign agitators.

But Moroccans bombed Casablanca. All grew up in poverty and followed the ideology of radical Islam. None had ever left Morocco. 15 of the 22 people jailed for the Madrid bombing are Moroccan. In a special feature on the 3/11 attacks, Time magazine called Moroccans the "new face of terror".

A member of Hofstad, an extremist group composed largely of young ethnic Moroccans, is accused of the November murder of Dutch filmmaker Theo van Gogh. This year, Dutch police arrested 13 Moroccan terror suspects. Similar sweeps in France and Belgium led to the incarceration of at least a dozen members of a suspected Moroccan terrorist cell. Full Story

THE WORLD AFTER 9/11 | Inspired to Radicalism

Moroccans Gain Prominence in Terror Groups

By Craig Whitlock - Washington Post Foreign Service Thursday, October 14, 2004; Page A01

There are numerous signs that Moroccans -- both at home and abroad -- are playing a bigger role in global networks of Islamic militants. In recent months, authorities in Italy, France, Belgium and the Netherlands have broken up apparent terror cells composed primarily of Moroccan immigrants.

In Germany, two Moroccans are facing trial on charges of helping to carry out the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks in the United States, and warrants in the case have been issued for two other people of Moroccan descent. Saudi Arabia's list of most-wanted terrorism suspects also names two Moroccans, the only ones from outside the Arabian Peninsula.

"We cannot exaggerate the threat," said Claude Moniquet, a terrorism researcher and president of the European Strategic Intelligence and Security Center in Brussels. "The terrorist threat in Morocco and the Moroccan community in Europe is real." Full Story

Spain: Europe's biggest terrorist threat is Morocco

(Agencies)

Updated: 2004-07-16 08:46

Europe's biggest terrorist threat is Morocco ¡a seething with as many as 1,000 al-Qaeda adherents capable of suicide attacks and skilled at slipping through the continent's southern gateway, Spain's leading anti-terrorism judge testified Thursday.

The impoverished kingdom just a short ferry ride across the Strait of Gibraltar has about 100 al-Qaeda-linked cells that raise money by dealing hashish, fencing luxury cars and smuggling people into Spain, Judge Baltasar Garzon told lawmakers investigating the Madrid train bombings. Most of the 17 suspects jailed in the March 11 bombings, which killed 190 people, are Moroccan Full Story

"Our U.S. intelligence agencies know of Morocco's terrorism connection, YET, protect and support the ON-GOING, extensive treasonous briberies and cover up conspiracies of giving aid and comfort to illegal Moroccans or those who have temporary status, currently or formerly working at Orlando Disney/EPCOT Moroccan Pavilion on a Q-1 Visa [and other illegal Muslims and other illegal nationals] of rewarding their numerous felonies of a sham marriage, perjury, fraud documents, etc. with green cards and ensuing American citizenship while these SAME treasonous officials order our beloved men and women in the military to Iraq and Afghanistan to fight "seditious" Muslims; our very own beloved Americans who are daily being killed or maimed with hands, arms and legs blown off or poisoned with radiation, mustard gas and/or depleted uranium."

"YET, while Our very own men and women in Our military are placing their lives on the line 24/7, being killed and maimed with arms, hands and legs blown off, here in Orlando, with the knowledge and willing approval, protection, support and encouragement (even promotions and rewards), of our accountable and responsible Washington D.C. Executive and Legislative branches treasonous corrupt officials, and our "trusted" media, our trusted "homeland security" can't reward fast enough multiple FELONY violations of our sovereign laws with green cards and United States citizenship to illegal Bangladeshi, illegal Moroccans, illegal Pakistanis, illegal Egyptian, and other illegal nationals, etc., who have committed multiple FELONIES, felony illegal entry, felony illegal overstay, felony illegal employment, felony fraud sham marriages, felony perjury, felony counterfeit/altered/fraudulent documents, felony bribery, felony forgery, etc..."